	Dialogue
A:	What's for dinner, Mummy?
M:	Meat and salad.
A:	Oh... how about pizza?
M:	You had pizza for lunch, Alice.
A:	I know, but I love pizza so much! More than all other things.
M:	Everybody loves pizza.
A:	So, why can't I have it for dinner, Mum?
M:	It's not good for your health. Children must eat healthy food.

English is Kevin's favourite school subject.

Kevin started to read books in English when he was eight. His teacher was happy. The other children in Kevin's class could not read English books then. He showed a good example to them. He was the best pupil in his class. He had very good marks in all subjects.

Now Kevin is ten. Reading English books is his hobby. He reads them on rainy and cloudy days; he reads them on hot sunny days. He reads them from Monday to Sunday. His parents buy him a new English book every week. Kevin's room is full of books.

Kevin enjoys reading books about animals and children. Kevin says that one day he will write his own book in English. It will be about a little boy and his pets.
